ATTACKED; TWO KILLED

NODENA, Italy, Jan. 24.—Two mourners were killed and several wounded today when shots were fired at a funeral procession held under the auspices of the Fascist, extreme nationalist party, for a student who recently was murdered.

In revenge the Fascist attacked and set fire to the chamber of labor. The police restored order.

URNS BANDIT FOR HIS BRIDE

Son of Wealthy Merchant
Charges Wife Urged Him to Be Highwayman.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Arthur Stanley Naynor, who claims to be the son of a wealthy Pittsburgh manufacturer, asserted yesterday in the magistrate's court at Jamaica that he became a bandit to please his wife. Naynor, an ex-soldier was held in $5,000 bail for robbery.

URGED HIM TO ROB.
Recently he came to Mineola, he said, where he met and married Miss Helen May Walker, of Hempstead. He added:

"One day my wife said she wanted to go to New York. I didn't have any money. She said that wasn't necessary. 'Go get a piece of leadpipe,' she told me. I told her I didn't like that sort of business. But she persisted. So we got a taxi, driven by Jacob Anton, who had a stand on Jackson avenue, Mineola."

TOLD HIM TO HIT DRIVER.
The ride took place on October 27, Naynor continued:
"We came back in the evening and my wife told the driver to go along the Queens road. When we came to a deserted spot we got out. By the side of the road we picked up stones and my wife said to me: 'You hit him on the head'—meaning the driver—'and if you miss I'll hit him.'"

"So I hit him on the head and he fell unconscious. We took all the money he had—$6—and I drove the cab back to New York. From there we went to Philadelphia, where I sold the car for $100 and took the train for Pittsburgh."

SEAT TO LEAVENWORTH.
There, he said, he lived in a furnished room with his wife until the money gave out. After that they went to live with his family, and Naynor reenlisted in the army. Shortly after that he got into trouble, the nature of which has not been given out. He was sent to Leavenworth prison. A few days ago he was released, and took a train for Mineola, expecting to rejoin his bride.

Before the reunion could be effected he was arrested.

PERUVIAN EMBASSY TO OCCUPY NEW QUARTERS
Even an embassy finds it convenient to move sometimes.

On February 1, the Peruvian embassy's officials and clerical force will be located in their new quarters, 2726 Connecticut avenue N. W.

During the past year it was found that the present location of the embassy at 2121 Massachusetts avenue, was rapidly growing inadequate for the increasing business. So Dr. F. A. Pezet, the Peruvian ambassador, started to look for suitable quarters and found them in an office building in Connecticut avenue. The lease on the Massachusetts avenue location expires February 1.

MRS. NINA E. ALLENDER, of Washington, only woman political cartoonist in the country whose collection of art produced during the suffrage campaign will be presented to the Congressional Library next month. Mrs. Allender produced 287 cartoons on one subject. She first produced the suffragist as an attractive young girl instead of the commonly accepted view that the suffragist was a maiden lady of uncertain age.

Work of Only Suffrage Cartoonist To Go To Cong. Library Exhibit

Two hundred and eighty-seven cartoons on one subject is the record established by the only woman political cartoonist in this country, Mrs. Nina E. Allender, of Washington, whose drawings form part of an exhibit to be presented to the Congressional Library by the National Woman's Party after its convention here in February.

The one subject of Mrs. Allender's cartoons was suffrage, and every phase of the long struggle, with its political maneuvers backward and forward, was illustrated graphically by her clever pencil.

"SUFFRAGETTE" VISUALIZED.
Since most of the suffrage blockades were due to failure of one or the other great political party to act, Mrs. Allender's pencil became so accustomed to Republican elephants and Democratic donkeys that now, she says, "they almost draw themselves."

It was Mrs. Allender, too, who first visualized "suffragettes" as attractive young girls, smartly dressed, and banished forever from the press the time-honored maiden ladies of uncertain age and spectacled eyes beloved of the suffrage cartoonists of former days.

OTHER SUFFRAGE RELICS.
Besides these cartoons, which cover a period of five years and most of the events in the campaign of the Woman's Party for national suffrage, other interesting relics of the suffrage fight are included in the exhibition, which is to be one of the permanent historical collections of the Library of Congress. A complete prison costume, worn by one of the suffrage prisoners in the District jail, the most famous of the picket banners, affidavits concerning jail conditions which the suffragists protested against, pictures of the great demonstrations staged in Washington and other parts of the country, and of suffrage leaders, are part of the exhibition.

Although the proper authorities at the Library have accepted the exhibition it will not be presented until after the convention of the Woman's Party, February 15-18, during which it will be displayed at the party's headquarters for the benefit of convention delegates and guests.

PLASTER OF PARIS CAKES ARE GOOD UNTIL LATER

Family Mistakes White Stuff for Buckwheat, Stomachs Don't.

MILFORD, Del., Jan. 26.—"Delicious!" thought the family of Captain William Wallis, eating piping hot griddle cakes, but alas they nearly died. The cook book called for buckwheat, but there's many a slip in cooking, especially when plaster paris, sometimes used for rat poison, bears such close resemblance to buckwheat flour.

Of course it was used unknowingly, but plaster paris went into the batter. It looked like buckwheat. It mixed with the other ingredients of the recipe like buckwheat. It fried like buckwheat and the cakes appeared to be the genuine thing. They even tasted like buckwheat cakes. And many were devoured, before pangs unknown to buckwheat gripped the diners.

The family is well on the road to recovery; but want no more plaster of paris pancakes.

OIL IN AUSTRALIA MEANS NAVAL BASE

Tasmanian Discovery Leads Britain to Plan Huge Station for Warships.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 26.—Discovery of oil in Australia has encouraged the government to plan a huge naval base in this country, according to reports here today.

Since the British navy accepted oil as a fuel, the benefits of Australia as a base for British and Australian battleships have been greatly hindered, it was said, by lack of fuel. Discovery of oil in the southeastern districts have caused the government to reserve all oil rights in the states where the discoveries have been made.

The government offered to pay a pound-for-pound subsidy to the producer or company striking oil in the southern states. In four bore which Admiral Clarkson inspected, and containing oil had been found and from three of them gas had been liberated in fair quantities.

Reports of discoveries in Barn Bluff and Crade mountain, inland on the northwest coast of Tasmania, has attracted a rush of applicants for the country which covers a radius of fifteen square miles.

The Roman Catholic population of the United States is 17,549,324.
